FORTY-TWO CLUB.

Mrs. L. E. Heath, Miss Lorraine Heath and Mrs. Fletcher Davis were hostesses at the first meeting of the Thursday "42" club held in the New Year and a decorative scheme suggestive of the season was prettily carried out.

The ceiling of the hall had been brightened by enterlaced bands of red and green reaching from the molding on the sides to the light fixtures in the center. When ready for the games the guests drew for partners and places from a circle of ribboned tallies which had been arranged around a mistletoe-filled basket with huge red bow which adorned a table in the center of the hall.

At the conclusion of a number of spirited games of "42" Mrs. Earl Starnes held high score, eleven games.

Sprigs of mistletoe fastened with bows of red ribbon to cards inscribed with good wishes for the New Year made pretty favors. These with chicken patties, hot buttered rolls, fruit cake with whipped cream and hot coffee made lovely plates which were served to the guests at tables whose central adornment of a single burning red taper in a mound of mistletoe further suggested the infancy of 1926.

The following were present: Mesdames Garland Martin, Elmer Leinweber, H. E. Taylor, E. J. Murray, John Hardt, Laura Welhausen, L. J. Brucks, Earl Boon, Horace Bradley, Jack Forgason, P. Jungman, O. H. Miller, R. J. Noonan, Mimke Muennink, W. O. Rothe, Earl Starnes, C. J. Schuehle, F. H. Schweers, Misses Clara Decker, Bess Brucks, Lucille de Montel, Lillian Brucks, Willa Mae Gaines and the hostesses, Mrs. L. E. Heath, Miss Lorraine Heath and Mrs. Fletcher Davis.

EMBROIDERY CLUB.

On the afternoon of January 2, Mrs. Henry Merriman opened the doors of her home to the members of the Embroidery Club when they entertained with their usual Christmas party.

After enjoying an hour of progressive "42" members and guests assembled in the dining room where they found a huge Christmas "pie" in the center of the table. From this pie strands of red and green ribbon extended to the edge of the table each bearing a name. When all had found their places some one said "pull!" The revelation—a wonderful collection of gifts and a profusion of "I thank you."

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Horace Bradley, Willie Crow, M. Beal, Ray Jennings, Orceuth Fly, Sterling Fly, Barnitz Carle, Henry Merriman, Newel Woolls, Eugene Mofield, Charles Monkhouse and Misses Dee Crow, Fannie Carle, Hettie Fusselman, Willie D. Fly, Lucille Woolls, Ruth Fly and Miss Willie McWilliams of Austin.

MANTEL IS NAMED DISTRICT ENGINEER.

AUSTIN, Texas, January 2.—L. W. Mantel, formerly in charge of highway work in Jim Wells County, has been appointed division highway superintendent with headquarters at Houston, succeeding E. S. Atkinson. Mantel is now at Houston, and soon will assume his new duties.

Mantel's appointment was made Wednesday when the Highway Commission requested and received resignation of H. J. Hank, highway engineer; L. R. Allison, assistant engineer; and L. E. Lawrence, headquarters maintenance superintendent, but no announcement was made.

Appointment of L. W. S. Mantel, of Alice as division highway engineer to replace E. S. Atkinson in District 12, with Houston as headquarters, became known late Saturday, when the appointment was announced at Austin.

Mr. Mantel reached Houston Friday morning, but the change was not made public until Saturday afternoon.

E. S. Atkinson's resignation was accepted by the highway commission at Austin at the same time the commission requested the resignation of R. J. Allison assistant engineer, and L. E. Lawrence as maintenance superintendent.

Changes in this division are seen as a forerunner of a general shake-up throughout the highway department, following advent of two new members to the commission.

Mr. Mantel declared Saturday that he was going to do his utmost to build up an efficient engineering organization in this district.

Twelve counties are included in District 12: Harris, Galveston, San Jacinto, Chambers, Montgomery, Walker, Madison, Grimes, Waller, Fort Bend, Brazoria and Liberty.

Working under Mr. Mantel are two maintenance superintendents, one having four of the 12 counties and the other the remaining eight. Each county has a county foreman in charge.

Mr. Mantel expects to devote his first week or two here to acquainting himself with conditions and with his division.

He believes that everyone, both urban and suburban dwellers, is thoroughly sold on good roads, and expects to see a great era of road building open up.

Mr. Mantel was county engineer of Jim Wells County at the time of this appointment. He has a lengthy record of engineering service in various parts of this country and foreign countries.

The new division engineer served as an engineer in the Spanish-American war, and went to France with the Twenty-Second Engineers when war was declared in 1917. He returned as commanding officer of the 54th Engineers.

He also was at one time highway engineer for the bureau of insular affairs in the Philippines, has been city engineer at San Angelo and county engineer of Uvalde County.—Houston Chronicle.

AMO F. JAGGE DEAD.

A telephone message to relatives here early this morning brought the sad news that Mr. Jagge died at the hospital in San Antonio at eleven o'clock Friday night.

The funeral will be held at Castroville tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon at 3 o'clock.

More extended mention next issue.

NEW FORD EQUIPMENT.

Windshield wings, gypsy curtains, top boots, and automatic windshield wiper are being added to the items of special equipment supplied by the Ford Motor Company. The first public display of this equipment will be during the Ford National Show Week, January 10 to 16, 1926.

These specialties are not "extras" but have been so designed by Ford engineers as to become actually part of the car. The equipment is held to the same standard of quality as the car itself. Behind them lies extensive experiment to determine the type and construction best adapted to Ford cars; experiment which was unhampered by any compromise necessary to permit adaption to some other kind of car.

The introduction of these specialties conflicts in no way with the company's policy of refraining from dictating to a purchaser the amount of equipment he must buy with his car. Those to whom economy is the principal consideration will in future, as in the past, be able to purchase Ford cars in which the standard equipment will include only those features essential to satisfactory operation. On the other hand, to those who are interested in the completely appointed car will be available specialties produced according to the same standards of quality which are incorporated in the car itself.

QUIH INOTES.

THE BAPTIST W. M. U.

The monthly mission meeting of the W. M. U. was held Thursday, December 31st, with Mrs. Marvin Beal as hostess.

There were twelve members present and two guests, Mrs. F. L. Crandall of Park Fall Wisconsin, and Mrs. Barnitz Carle. A most interesting program on "Children of other Lands" was given with Mrs. W. C. Brown as leader. A piano solo, "Silent Night," followed by a poem "The Child from the Glory Land," seemed to interpret the purpose of our program and led each one to feel the responsibility of carrying the Christmas story to the children of other lands.

After discussing their common characteristic and comparing the distressing privations of those people with the many luxuries of our own people each member was led to say in her own heart, "How can mine receive such good with these left out of the fold."

After being treated to delicious chicken sandwiches and tea the guests departed to their homes.

The W. M. U. of the Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Marvin Beal on Thursday afternoon December 31st.

An interesting missionary lesson on "Children of other Countries" was led by Mrs. W. C. Brown.

After the session, delicious refreshments of sandwich and tea were served to those present.

HONDO BOY WINS SILVER CUP.

Fort Sam Houston, Tex., Jan. 9, 1926—Mr. D. H. Love, Hondo,

Texas, was awarded a silver cup as first place in the One Hundred Yard Swim (Breast Stroke) one of the events that took place at the C. M. T. Camp swimming meet held at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, during the month of August 1925.

This award won as it was from a large number of competitors reflected great credit on Mr. Love.

No young man should miss an opportunity to attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps, for as President Coolidge says, "The young men graduating from the Citizens' Military Training Camps are helped to physical health, mental vigor, and moral excellence.

A card addressed to the C. M. T. C. Officer, Headquarters Eighth Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas will bring full information.

ED. HUEHNER, Local Representative

News or business matter for this page for the week's issue should be submitted to Mr. Huehner or mailed direct to us at Hondo not later than Wednesday night of each week.

Rain, rain, and then some. The weather of the past week has been very disagreeable, it being cold and slushy; but still the farmers and stockmen should feel thankful as well as jubilant, for it certainly puts a fine season in the ground for planting, and assures early pasture for stock.

We were misinformed when we stated last week that Mrs. J. F. Schott had been taken to a hospital at San Antonio for medical treatment. The lady is staying with friends in that city.

The New Year's Dance at the Electric Park Hall went by default owing to the inclement weather.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Morrison and son, Andy, Jr., of San Antonio visited relatives in our midst Sunday.

Rudolph Mueller, the Shoemaker, left Monday for San Antonio where he will undergo an operation to his eyes.

Chas. Ahr, the proprietor of the Riomedina Garage, was a Castroville business visitor Monday.

NOTICE.

To Owners of Live Stock in Town of Castroville:—

The next dipping day at the Naegelin Vat will be Wednesday, January 13, 1926, and all stock running at large in the town of Castroville and up and down the river on open range must be dipped regularly on every dipping day, unless you prefer keeping them in your lot. If they have been running at large in town you must have your lot disinfected and your cattle dipped clean into this lot and kept up all the time and not turned out on the town occasionally.

If you will not abide by the above regulation we will have to enforce the Stock Law in Castroville.

Yours very respectfully,
H. F. WURZBACH,
Agent Bureau of Animal Industry,
Hondo, Texas.

FORD NATIONAL SHOW WEEK IN HONDO.

The showroom of CARTER & BADER, local Ford dealers, will be just about the most popular place in the city this week. Ford National Show Week which opens tomorrow and will continue through next Saturday evening, has brought out the greatest exhibit in the history of the Ford Motor Company. Not only is a full line of improved cars being shown, but the trim lines of the various types are enhanced by such new appointments as top boot and gypsy curtains, windshield wings and windshield wiper supplied by the Ford Motor Company. This special equipment is being exhibited for the first time in Ford National Show Week and should prove mighty interesting even to those who are already driving improved Ford cars.

In addition to the cars and specialties, representative types of Ford Ton Trucks and Fordson tractors with both industrial and agricultural equipment will be displayed.

Arrangements for the week's display here were made by the Houston Branch of the Ford Motor Company to coincide with exhibits in every dealer's showroom in the United States. The purpose of the display is to give people of Hondo an opportunity to become better acquainted with the improved Ford cars. The display will remain open in the evening to accommodate those whose day is occupied.

In Ford cars which will be shown during the National Show Week are incorporated improvements in body design and construction and chassis refinements more pronounced than any made in the history of the Model "T" Chassis. Although thousands of these improved cars are in operation all over the country at the present time, there are still many persons who have not had opportunity to view the entire line and inspect in detail the improvements which have so greatly increased the popularity of Ford cars.

The first impression of the Ford cars for 1926 is one of increased beauty and smartness. Bodies are longer and lower, fenders hang low over the wheels and closed cars are finished in rich harmonious color schemes. But beauty is not the only quality to benefit by the redesigning. Riding comfort has been increased by wider, lower seats and greater legroom. New features of convenience have also been incorporated in these new cars. The gasoline tank is now filled from outside the car and in the open types, a door at the driver's left permits entry or exit without disturbing the front seat passenger. Both transmission and rear wheel brakes have been enlarged.

A Colorful Scarf

To add a note of color and dash to the all white costume, one must wear one of the smart new scarfs of printed silks. This one, worn by Kathleen Key in "The Midshipman," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Ramon Novarro, has large black and orange polka dots on a white background, finished with a silk fringe of orange.

Worn about the neck, it adds a dashing touch of color and smartness to the all white sport costume Miss Key is wearing.

It is on the sound education of the people that the security and destiny of every nation chiefly rest. — Kossuth.

NEW YEAR'S PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schweers entertained with a New Year's Party at their cozy home in the Martin-James Addition, honoring Mr. Josephus R. Kritz, of New York City, who spent the holidays here with his friend, Mr. Jos. Palle. Mr. Kritz, who had been a medical student at the State University, left after the holidays for Columbia University to continue his study of medicine.

Forty-two claimed the attention of the guests during the evening. After the games the hostess served hot chocolate, cakes and candies to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Palle, Misses Rhoda Mae Taylor, Roberta Hudspeth and Irene Schweers and Mr. Ermon Taylor and the honoree, Mr. Kritz.

HONDO, TEXAS, JAN 1ST., 1926

A HAPPY, PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO ONE AND ALL!

Plant trees—and so perpetuate the memory of a useful act well performed.

Plan to make 1926 farming a self-supporting game. Thus will it be safe farming.

Conscientious scruples are ceasing to inconvenience in too many instances for the good of society.

A thing foreplanned in ample time
Saves one many a needless climb!

The first essential of making 1926 a prosperous new year is to avoid the crop mortgage system and the extravagance of credit prices.

Systematic crop rotation should be a part of 1926 planning. So will the dangers of damage from insect pests and plant diseases be minimized at the outset.

Let's see! Once there was a fellow named Satterwhite who wanted to call the legislature together to investigate something or other. Any body remember just what?

This will be an election year in Texas, and all friends of good government and real democracy should pay their polltax and qualify to exercise their sovereignty.

Help us double FARMING's subscription list by renewing your own subscription and sending the name of an interested neighbor. A dollar pays for your friend and your own renewal.

The way the Travis county grand jury is dallying over its "investigation," one is forced to the conclusion that the powers behind it have not forgotten how the findings of that body on a previous occasion blew up—when Jim Ferguson got them in open court!

That thirty or forty legislators who were so anxious to get the public test between their teeth through the means of an extra session are reminded that snow shovelers are now in demand at good pay and they have a chance to serve their country in a real worthwhile way.

We have secured the services of a practical bee man to edit a bee department in FARMING and we look to him to make his department of inestimable value to beekeepers everywhere and especially in Texas. Every man who keeps bees should read Mr. Eugene Holloway's department in FARMING, and every farmer should keep bees.

That was unkind in Dan not to let Satty play in his "back-yard" and "hallow down" his own little gubernatorial "rain-barrel." But in the practice of modern politics there can be no altruism between rivals for gubernatorial honors, and the other fellow must not try to lay vile hands on one's own little private mare's nest?

WHERE CHARACTER IS CREATED.

President Coolidge uttered a significant observation when he called attention to the fact that the "agricultural problem" is not wholly the question whether the farmer can make his farm pay. That is the farmer's immediate question, and it is incidentally a question for the whole country, since all other industries, together with the American citizen's three meals a day, depend on the agricultural industry but there is another and a vital question which Mr. Coolidge stated in these words:

"The ultimate result to be desired is not the making of money, but the making of people. Industry, thrift and self-control are not sought because they create wealth, but because they create character. These are the prime product of the farm. We who have seen it, and lived it, we know. It is this life that the Nation is so solicitous to maintain and improve.

The Nation's energies, its public stamina, its character, its peculiar ability to solve its problems and go on from strength to strength, are as much a product of the farms as the food which sustains the physical life of the people. 'Ill fares the land—where wealth accumulates and men decay.' But the race which has been nurtured on the self-supporting farm does not decay. It increases in vigor, for there is where the fiber of a nation's manhood is built up. And it is the independence which there prevails, and the stimulus of self-reliance in incessant struggle, that produces the fiber of this manhood. Herein lies the importance of preserving the independent, the autonomous character of the farm. If we conceive American agriculture as having passed, as some observers think that it is bound to pass, into the possession and control of great corporations, which will send their superintendents, their experts, their foremen here and there, relegating the actual tiller of the soil to the level of an irresponsible and unthinking laborer, the stimulating effect of the farmer's life will be lost. No more 'making of people,' no more creating of character. The farm, under its independent American status, is a little planet, a little earth, with the farmer and his sons, and often, under the simple old system, its intimately associated hired man, individually passing through the stern process of character-development that the whole race has gone through since Adam first set at work earning his bread by the sweat of his brow. Not only is he stronger in his self-dependent state, though it may be a case of sink or swim, succeed or perish, but the American farmer is also happier, than he would be as a mere irresponsible worker. And the difference to the Nation whose bone and sinew he constitutes is incalculable.

It is this reason that gives the highest importance to President Coolidge's efforts to establish prosperity for the American farmer, particularly on the basis of co-operation. A joining of effort and enterprise on the part of farmers will not weaken their initiative or their character. On the other hand, it will supply another feature in their education. It will take the cut-throat element out of their competition. It will make broader minded citizens out of them.—Boston Transcript.

This Government of our has gone so far beyond the limits fixed by its founders that its direct power is being felt by every man and woman in the land, says the Farmers Magazine. It has become so meddlesome, with so many complications, that the plain citizen does not know what his privileges are. In point of fact, he knows that his privileges constantly are being taken from him. Paternalism, which is hard to distinguish from socialism, insists on imposing itself upon him.

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND EDUCATION.

Those who have kept themselves informed as to the work of the National Educational Association have learned from the proceedings of that body in its late convention at Indianapolis, that the advocates of the creation of a department of education by the national government, with a secretary in the cabinet, have undergone a decided change of mind, at least a majority have.

They still insist on the creation of such a department, rather as "a fact-finding and fact-distributing agency" than as a department vested with direction of the management of public schools in the states.

George D. Strayer, professor of education, Columbia University outlines in the last issue of the Journal of the National Educational Association, the latest bill which has been drafted and circulated for discussion. He says:

"The proposal which will be presented to the next congress omits additional aid to the states. There has been a sincere difference of opinion in regard to this matter. There is no prospect that congress will at this time grant additional federal support."

He says further. "The establishment of a department of education does not involve the nation in further federal support for our public schools."

The difference between the new bill and the contentions heretofore put forth is obvious. Evidently those who framed it recognize that the people, especially those of the South, have become at once suspicious and weary, of offers of financial aid to the states by the federal government, which they look upon as a policy as insidious as it is dangerous.

It assumes the form of a bribe paid with their own money to allow the federal government to intrude its power into a realm which is essentially local and domestic, therefore wholly for state control.

It is too plain for argument that if the federal government extends financial aid to the state schools, it will logically and inevitably claim the right to supervise the expenditure of the money, and the result will be that state control will give way to federal control.

Out of such a situation as certainly as effect follows cause, will arise the color and racial question, regarding which the South is "solid and will remain solid."

Most of the members of the National Educational Association, and there are now 100,000 of them, come from states where children of the two races attend the same school.

Texas, like every sister Southern state, is making the same provision for educating the blacks as it is for educating the whites, but they must have separate schools.

A department of education, such as the new bill proposes, might be of value, but any bill that authorizes appropriation by the federal government in aid of state schools, coupled with the provision, which would be inevitable for federal direction of policies and management, would be fatal to the school system of the entire South.—Houston Chronicle.

It is one's privilege to favor the repeal of any law he deems unwise or unjust; but so long as it is the law it is the duty of every man, regardless of his contempt for it, to obey it with scrupulous fidelity. Any other course is to contribute to the loosening of the bonds that hold men together in orderly society and should bring upon the head of any one so offending the deserved contempt of respectable people.

An intelligent class can scarce ever be, as a class, vicious, and never, as a class, indolent. The excited mental activity operates as a counterpoise to the stimulus of sense and appetite.—Everett.

TAXING BODIES TAKE NOTICE.

There is a nation-wide demand that progress shall be made with the recommendation of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon for tax reduction.

"The reduction of surtaxes and withdrawal of the federal government from the field of inheritance taxes hold first place," says the New York Times. "Secretary Mellon himself has just renewed his advocacy of these plans. From the United States Chamber of Commerce come reports further attesting the fact that the country approves the administration program. The Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association proposes that all state death taxes under whatever name, shall be deducted from the federal, while the National Jewelers' Board of Trade asks that the federal government abandon that form of taxation altogether.

"The Farm Mortgage Bankers Association suggests a novelty in the form of inheritance taxes upon securities exempt from federal income tax, graduated in proportion to the time that the exemption has been enjoyed.

"President Coolidge planted a heavy foot on taxes levied for alleged social reforms rather than for support of the government. There can be no greater stimulus to enterprise than allowing profits to remain with those able and willing to make ventures calling for capital investment and wage payments. Nor can there be a greater discouragement to initiative than taxes which draw capital from trade.

"Future tax reductions must, of necessity, be at a lower rate. Expenses of the government cannot be halved again within a short period."—Selected.

THERE BE STRANGE DOINGS IN AMERICA.

Congress recently voted a greatly increased appropriation for the enforcement of prohibition, and with the army of enforcement officers growing the laxity of enforcement seems to increase.

It is rapidly degenerating into a system of pension to an aggregation of salary-absorbers who give little in the way of service in return therefore.

And millions of tax-payers pay taxes to maintain this army of tax-eaters without open protest and at the same time violate the law with impunity both in their homes and in their daily habits!

Why all this hypocrisy? Why this stupendous force?

And the sickening thing about it is that the "scoundrels" are not restricted to the so-called depraved class but the practice of violating the law is most flagrant in the homes and in the habits of people who pose as law-abiding citizens and move in the best walks of life.

What can the future hold for a people who thus flout the laws of the land and put a premium on hypocrisy?

The Editor of this paper is a Knight of Pythias, a Mason and an Odd Fellow, and for that reason thrice proscribed by the Catholic Church. We neither ask any consideration from that church nor offer it any apology for coming under its ban. But we are for Al Smith for President regardless of the fact that he is an adherent of that church. Instead of his being a Catholic disqualifying him for that high office, the fact that he follows the dictates of his conscience in the matter of religious practice should be a point in his favor in this day of hypocrisy and bigotry. Nothing could be of greater benefit to this country than a reawakening of religious tolerance—a cause that could be eminently served by the election of an adherent of an unpopular sect. Aside from that important phase of the matter, real democracy will be safe in the administration of Al Smith.

THE SAME HERE.

The following from the Farmers Magazine so aptly voices Farming's opinion that we give it here as the better expression of our own thought:

"This publication is dedicated to the principles of democracy and restoring agriculture to prosperity. Repeatedly it has cried out against the dangers of encroaching centralization and bureaucratic power of Washington. That evil thing—centralization—has been the strongest factor in the organized and disciplined forces which throughout civilization have been hampering the growth and safety of democracy. Centralization, knowingly or unknowingly, lends itself to plutocracy—the rule of aggregated and predatory wealth.

In the United States centralization operates through bureaucracy. Bureaucracy so entangles the powers of government as to make a labyrinthine maze of the hugh institution of government. The citizen, once enmeshed in this tangled web, loses all sense of direction and in his mad efforts to find his way out travels along the lines of concentric circles which finally land him in the iron grip of despotism. Monarchical government is better than that. In monarchical despotism there is benevolence to appeal to for mercy—human benevolence. In bureaucratic despotism there is no benevolence to appeal to for cold, pulseless statutes instead of rational human beings are the masters of the citizen.

We believe that all the American farmer needs is the same measure of democracy granted to the farmers by every Government of old Europe, with its traditions of monarchical despotism and paternalistic feudalism. In Europe farmers are permitted by their governments to control the distribution and marketing of the fruits of their hard and hazardous toil. The result is prosperity for the European farmer.

In the United States the farmer is looked upon by our rulers as fit to be trusted only with the production end of the great agricultural industry. The result of this is bankruptcy, increasing poverty and growing unrest in millions of farm homes in the United States."

To it we can only add that what the farmer most needs at the hands of his government is protection in the enjoyments of those rights which are naturally his own.

An inheritance tax is ghoulish in its nature and uneconomic in its application. Men practice industry and frugality that they may pass their accumulations on to bless and benefit loved ones. To mulct his savings for governmental purposes after a man is dead is to put a premium of profligacy and improvidence during his life and rob his shroud in death. The whole conception is so ghoulish and abhorrent that we fail to see how it can be contemplated with composure by any one much less be embraced. For that reason, when a bunch of Texas legislators go to Washington, wearing the sheep's clothes of benevolent friends of the people but in practice the hired mercenaries of affected wealth, and spoil the effect that might have come from an appeal on principle to the second and sounder judgment of a bunch of misguided congressmen from this state, the blunder is all the more regrettable.

Toby Hicks says that a man is never any more of a success than what his friends make him. Toby may be in error as to a farmer—the most independently self-sufficient man in the whole social fabric—but there is no doubt but what he is absolutely correct as regards the publisher of an agricultural journal. Whatever success FARMING may ever achieve will be due to its friends. Want you do something to show your friendship for it?

'Tis education forms the common mind; just as the twig is bent the tree is inclined.—Pope.

(A Story.)

By Fletcher Davis.

Bill Morgan's face wore a dejected look wholly foreign to his usual cheerful mood and equally out of keeping with the joyful spirit of Christmas day.

Toby Hicks noted it at first glance, and without waiting for his salutation, inquired anxiously:

"What's the matter, Bill?" "Well, I guess our scheme to get rich growin' seed corn next year is all blowed up," he replied, dolefully. "How so?" asked Toby.

"Why, old Sam Smart, with his usual contrariness, was over bright and early this mornin' and swore he won't keep his contract; says he's goin' to keep right on plantin' his own strawberry corn; and since he is right in the middle of us the pollen would spoil every thing around him and under the terms of the contract release the seed house from takin' our corn."

"I'll be—" Toby restrained himself and in lieu of profanity emitted a low whistle.

"Something must be done about it," he added after a moment's reflection.

"Yes, but what?" rejoined Mr. Morgan. "He swears that Bill Sharp has some kind of a scheme to skin us all, and that after thinkin' it all over he won't be skinned but plant his strawberry corn just the same as if there weren't no contract."

"The poor old fool," observed Toby. "Do you know, Bill," he went on, "I am beginnin' to learn that prejudice hurts the man as has it worse than anybody else."

"That's generally true, but in this case Sam's prejudice is goin' to hurt all of us as well as himself," added Mr. Morgan, in a tone of bitterness. "We must get Bill Sharp to buy him out and get rid of the old crank," went on Toby.

"Bill has tried for years to do just that," was the response, "but he swears that he'll never sell to him."

"Why not you buy him out, Bill?" "Not me; I've all the land I need for my business. What's the matter with you buying it, Toby?"

It became Toby's turn to stop and think again.

"I hadn't thought of that," he replied. "But if I could get a farm loan I might swing the deal."

"That's the idea, Toby, my boy," Bill Morgan agreed with enthusiasm. "You couldn't invest your corn money to better purpose and then all your work of improving the place would be for yourself."

"If you'll help me I'll try it," said Toby with that set of the jaws that meant decision.

A busy week followed, and New Year's day rolled around almost before Toby realized the passing of the time.

But the deal had been made. The farm loan had been secured, Sam Smart had his money for his 80, Toby had the deed to his farm and Happy Corners folks had the satisfaction of knowing that they were to be rid of the neighborhood pest.

Toby was ready and anxious to move onto his own farm and only waited for the former owner to vacate.

That was the status of affairs when New Year's dawned bright and clear, an ideal Southern midwinter day.

Several auto trucks rolled up to Toby's gate early in the day and Bill Morgan, as usual the leader, announced that they were on hand to move Toby to his new home. No protests or explanations could stop them, and eventually all of Toby's household belongings were loaded on the trucks and he and Betty Hicks and little Junior bid good-bye to the life of tenant farmers.

Toby was somewhat mystified at the action of his neighbors and Betty inclined to be rebellious at being rushed into her abode without first having a chance to go ahead and clean up.

But their misgivings were soon allayed. Upon approaching the house a large concourse of neighbors met them with cherry New Year greetings.

Even Mother-in-law Thompson was there and she gave Toby the first smile she had favored him with since she first found out that he was paying serious court to Betty back in the days of pig-tail plaits—and we started to say short frocks.

Sam Smart's worldly goods were loaded on trucks ready to quit the neighborhood; the house was vacated.

Mrs. Morgan and several other farm women took charge of Betty and ushered her into the modest but immaculately cleaned farm house and led her through to the back yard where an open air dinner was steaming hot on a log-heap fire.

"What does all this mean?" she inquired, her face a study in conflicting emotions.

"Can't you see, dear? It's a house-warming for you and Toby."

And the pout of resentment on Betty Hicks's face gave way to woman's strongest expression of joy and gratitude—tears, simple tears.

While some of Toby's neighbors had gone to his place and loaded his household effects, drawing out the process till well after mid-day, much to the disgust of Junior who wanted his dinner with all the eagerness of the growing boy he was, others had gathered at the new home with baskets of food, and while some set to work to prepare both a barbecue and a Brunswick stew dinner in true Southern country style, others cleaned up the house and premises and made ready for the reception of Toby's effects as fast as the Smarts could vacate.

And it was a joyous house-warming they had that day. After the trucks had been unloaded and things set to rights somewhat, all fell to the dinner with a zest known only to those who labor with their hands in the open air.

Bill Morgan acted as master of ceremonies and as soon as he could eat to his satisfaction indulged his Irish proclivities for making a speech to his neighbors. In his own crude way he told of Toby's success and of the prospects for the future of the community due to Toby's efforts, and wound up his lengthy dissertation with the observation that any man who could milk cows as well as Toby could make a success at any thing he wanted to do.

At this outburst, there were calls for a speech from Toby.

At the urgent pushing of several of his neighbors, he struggled blushing to his feet.

He opened his mouth to speak but choked, and gulped some water he did not want.

At length he stammered out:

"You folks think I have made a success—Bill Morgan has told you so—but I tell you that if there is any success it's you all who have made it—a man is never any more than what his friends make him—and if I've any thing to be proud of it's for having friends that do so much for me. Now there's Bill Morgan; look what he's done for me—I wouldn't be here on my own land today eatin' this fine dinner if it hadn't been for him—I'd probably be eatin' cheese and crackers alone again down at the Corners store, like I did last New Year's, if I hadn't got to milk the cows for him—I say, Bill; are you going to let me keep on milkin' the cows?"

At this the enthusiasm of the crowd broke forth in vociferous cheers that drowned Bill Morgan's "I'll be durned."

And Toby went back to his fifth cup of steaming hot coffee.

DOUBLE TAXATION.

When the far-seeing authors of the Constitution limited the national Government to indirect taxation they probably had in mind the protection of the citizenry against just such an oppressive duplication of Federal and State levies. But when the Supreme Court held unconstitutional the income tax law enacted during the second Cleveland Administration (though the temporary Civil War levies had not been upset in the Sixties) what did the American people do? Did they feel grateful that the wise Founders had saved them from such an uneconomic step? They did not. Instead, they set about to overrule the Founders, and in the course of the next fifteen years Congress was induced to submit, and Legislatures were induced to ratify an amendment making the Constitution fit the income tax. We do not question here the wisdom of Federal income taxation. But we do question the wisdom of combined Federal and State income taxing powers, inheritance taxing powers, or any other kind of taxing powers. If the people wanted the Nation to tax incomes and inheritances they should have withdrawn from the States authority to lay taxes upon these same items. Our chief criticism, though, is of the present tendency to reshape the Constitution to fit legislation, instead of shaping legislation to fit the Constitution. If the American people are going to change their Constitution every time it blocks some whim of the moment, some scheme that on its very face is experimental, they might as well go the whole La Follette distance and empower Congress to override the Constitution with the same ease that it can override a President's veto.—Minneapolis Journal.

NEW YEAR'S DAWN.
By Fletcher Davis.
Oh! the day it dawns in the morn
But its spirit dwells in the heart,
And it's happy or it's forlorn
Just as the spirit plays the part!
The New Year will dawn in glory
Or the New Year will dawn in gloom
And its passing tell its story
In dead ashes or living bloom!

Contrasting Furs Smartly Combined

NORMA SHEARER

ONE of the novel bypaths that the newer fur coats are entering into this season is what may be called the "combination" coat, which is half of one and half of a blending fur. Incidentally, this mode may be used for practical purposes in fashioning one's last year jacquette into a new and fashionable long fur coat for this season's wear.

This novel coat, worn by Norma Shearer, whose next production is "The Tower of Lies," is severely tailored, the body of the coat being broadtail and the collar and skirt of nutria.

Painted Flowers on Frocks Now Vogue

AILEEN PRINGLE

THE newest fad which promises to have considerable of a vogue is the frock which has the wearer's favorite flower hand painted on it.

Hollywood, which instigates more fads and fashions than any other city in the country, now decrees the Flower Gown, which means that you must have at least one frock in your wardrobe ornamented with flowers. Aileen Pringle, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, has a penchant for chaste daisies. Whereupon she had them hand painted on a new winter frock of black crepe de chine.

Novel effects are obtained from flower garnishing and it promises to present one of the most popular styles of the season.

Interest to Hondo Folks

There's nothing more convincing than the statement of someone you know and have confidence in. That's why this talk with Mr. McCall should be mighty helpful here in Hondo.

Thos. McCall, carpenter, Hondo, says: "I had an attack of kidney trouble. I had such a severe pain in my back, I could hardly stoop to lift anything. It was difficult for me to do my work. Doan's Pills from Windrow's Drug Store removed the trouble."

Four Years Later, Mr. McCall added: "I have used Doan's for slight backache since they cured me."

The Better BUICK

Starts easily

Buick motor cars are designed to run efficiently in every temperature, and under every climatic condition. Buicks start quickly, even at zero. The new, high-speed, starting motor accomplishes this most desirable result.

Runs smoothly

Buick Automatic Heat Control reduces another cold-weather starting annoyance—that of bucking, spitting, misfiring engines. The exclusive Buick feature heats the fuel supply, and saves gasoline, automatically and immediately.

Stops safely

In rain, snow or sleet Buick mechanical 4-wheel brakes stop the car firmly, in a straight line. Neither heat nor cold affects the direct mechanical action of these brakes. There is no liquid in them to expand, contract or leak away.

and the Buick engine is full-pressure lubricated

The Buick engine is full-pressure lubricated. Every part gets a flood of oil as soon as the engine starts, every day in the year. An emergency feed tube siphons oil to the pump, even though the cold has congealed the oil around the pump screen.

Buick is a better Motor Car—In Every Kind of Weather

MORE ABOUT THE RAINS.

Due no doubt to the drouth of last year there is considerable interest in rain records for this section and we print below a record kept by P. C. Jagge about 15 miles northwest of Hondo and another kept by A. J. Graff about three miles southeast of Hondo. These records show considerable variation between each other but a still wider variation is found in comparison with Judge Haass' record of only 13.65 for Hondo. It all goes to emphasize the fact that rainfall in Southwest Texas is extremely erratic.

Judge Haass' records show that 1925, with its precipitation of only 13.65, was the driest year of record, 1917 running it a close second with 14.45.

We haven't Mr. Rothe's record for 1925, but reprint his record below for the last 44 years. His records show only one dryer year than 1925 at the Rothe ranch. That was in 1901 when only 12 1-2 were recorded. Judge Haass' records for that year show 17.46 for Hondo and are his third lowest year of record.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general strengthening tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 75c per bottle.

FORTY-FOUR YEARS OF RAINFALL

In 1880, the late Fritz Rothe, Sr., began keeping a record of the rainfall. The record was begun at the F. Rothe place on the Hondo (later known as the Hy. Rothe place) and the figures from 1880 to 1890 were recorded at that place. In 1890 he moved a few miles southwest of his former home and located on the Seco, where the figures have since been kept. Up to 1900, the rainfall was measured in an ordinary tin cup; since then a standard rain gauge has been used. Since Mr. Rothe's death in 1916, his sons at home have kept the records and we are indebted to Messrs. Gus A. and Armin Rothe for the valuable table which follows. The compilation of this data entailed a great deal of painstaking labor. You should preserve this for future reference. The table is consistent in but one thing that we can see—that we have an erratic rainfall in Texas. Save for the fact that the rainfall for the past six months of each year noted except for 1883 and 1884. During these years Mr. Rothe was away from home surveying.

This record is complete for each month of each year noted except for 1883 and 1884. During these years Mr. Rothe was away from home surveying.

"Government control, interference through establishment of a Federal Bureau to take charge of selling the farmer's surplus crop, means an entering wedge which, once in, will be driven so deep that enormous payrolls and constant increasing political patronage will be at the disposal of the centralization advocates, thinks the Farmers Magazine. The government, once remotely in control of agriculture, will never stop until farming will find itself under full-fledged paternalism. If such a catastrophe should overtake this country, the principles of democracy would be knocked into a 'cocked hat.' Agriculture is not only the supporting industry of the Nation, but is ten times, in money value, greater than any other. No man or woman could hope to escape dictation and interference in business under a centralized government. It would become so strong and so powerful that those seeking such a consummation would gradually extend the paternalistic wing of the government to place all business under its wings."

IT IS NOT the work that kills men, it is worry. Work is healthful; you scarcely can put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys machinery, but the friction. Fear secretes acid; but love and trust are sweet juices. —Beecher.

Experience demonstrates that of any number of children of equal intellectual powers, those who receive no particular care in infancy, and who do not begin to study till the constitution begins to be consolidated, but who enjoy the benefit of a good physical education, very soon surpass in their studies those who commenced earlier, and who read numerous books when very young. —Spurzheim.

Education gives fecundity of thought, copiousness of illustration, quickness, vigor, fancy, words, images, and illustrations; it decorates every common thing, and gives the power of trifling without being undignified and absurd. —Sidney Smith.

MAP OF MEDINA AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES.

MEDINA COUNTY was organized and created by an Act of the Second Legislature of Texas, approved February 12, 1848, with its eastern boundaries the Medina river. See page 27, Acts of Second Legislature, 1848, and in Gammel's Laws of Tex., Vol. 3, page 27.

CHAPTER 36. AN ACT CREATING THE COUNTY OF MEDINA.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas, That all that territory included within the County of Bexar, beginning on the south bank of the Medina river, at the upper corner of a league survey No. 25, made for Wm. E. Howth, assignee of Marie Jesusa Hernandez, being the lower corner of survey No. 26, in the name of Julia Contes; thence south 16 miles, thence west 36 miles; thence north 36 miles; thence east to the Medina river; thence down the Medina on its west bank to the beginning, be and the same is hereby created a new county, to be known and called by the name of Medina.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That the town of Castrovilla on the west bank of the Medina river, be, and the same is hereby established as the county seat of said county of Medina.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Chief Justice of Bexar County to cause an election to be held on the second Monday of July, 1848, in accordance with the method prescribed by an act to provide for the organization of the several counties in the State. Approved April 11th, 1846, (for the purpose of electing county officers) for the County of Medina.

Section 4. Be it further enacted, That this take effect from and after its passage. Approved February 12, 1848.

By an act of the 13th Legislature, approved April 2, 1873, the boundaries of Medina County were enlarged to the present boundaries, taking a strip from Bexar County, east of the Medina river, about 4 miles in width. See Acts of the 13th Legislature, 1873, page 32, and Gammel's Laws of Texas, Vol. No. 7, page 484.

CHAPTER XXI. AN ACT TO ENLARGE THE COUNTY OF MEDINA.

Section 1. Be it Enacted by the legislature of the State of Texas, That so much of the territory of Bexar County as lies between the Medina river and the following described lines; that is to say, beginning on the south bank of the said Medina river, where the eastern boundary line of Medina County intersects said river; thence north, crossing the Medina river to intersect the boundary line between the counties of Bexar and Bander; thence in southwestern direction with said boundary line to where it intersects said Medina river, shall be and the same is hereby attached to and embraced in the County of Medina.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act is hereby repealed.

Section 3. This act is to take effect and be in force from and after its passage. Approved April 2, 1873. County seat was removed from Castrovilla to Hondo City by election held Aug. 27, 1892, Minutes of Commissioners' Court, Medina County, Book No. 5, page 259.

MY SELF-FEEDER FOR HOGS.

By Claud F. Huskin (Delta County).

The cafeteria system of feeding my hogs has proven very effective and economical, most particularly in the case of the ration of corn and tankage. I have my feeder arranged so that shelled corn and other grain is placed in one compartment of the bin of the feeder, which is a hopper so to speak, feeding down into a trough, and tankage or meat meal or other protein feed another compartment.

I find that the pigs will eat about the right amount of each to balance their ration. Pigs, I have found, have established a reputation for being wise choosers of food, in fact, much wiser than other farm animals.

In this way an even better diet is assured the pigs by self-feeding along with corn or corn substitute a mixture of four parts tankage, two parts of finely chopped leafy alfalfa hay, two parts linseed meal and one part ground limestone. With salt and water accessible in addition, and comfortable quarters, my pigs have little need for anything else. In fact, they are fairly certain of making the most economical gains.

"I told him I'd like to see him try."

"And then?"

Quick Way to Stop Night Cough

New Method Is Remarkably Effective

No need to put up with that disabling, weakening, sleep-robbing cough another night. For there is a simple but very effective remedy, which, usually with a single dose, all irritation and lets you sleep so the whole night through.

This treatment is based on the prescription known as Dr. King's Discovery for Coughs. You take one teaspoonful at night before going to bed and hold it in your throat for 20 seconds before swallowing it. It only soothes and heals soreness of the throat, but it quickly removes phlegm and congestion which are a direct cause of night coughing. So coughing stops quickly and you are all night undisturbed.

Dr. King's New Discovery is for coughs, chest colds, sore throat, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, and all lung troubles. Fine for children as well as grown-ups—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for Dr. King's New Discovery.
